

CASE: GSAF 2005.08.15

DATE: Sunday August 14, 2005

LOCATION: Milnerton Lagoon, Cape Town, Western Cape Province, South Africa.

NAME: Unknown

NARRATIVE: Derick van Vuuren from Table View was walking along the lagoon when he found a human foot. "It was just floating in the water," he said after making the find on Sunday. "The cops reckon it's a shark attack victim. But there have been no attacks on the West Coast. The last attack I remember is the one in Simon's Town. Perhaps it was the foot that went missing from the Salt River mortuary some time ago. But that one was sawn off, apparently. This one looked like it was chewed off." Police spokesperson Billy Jones said the foot had been severed above the ankle.

An inquest docket was opened.
