

ACTIVITY: Jumped into the water.
CASE: GSAF 1987.00.00.b
DATE: Summer of 1987
LOCATION: Mogren Beach, Budva, Montenegro

NAME: Unknown
DESCRIPTION: He was a male, a student from Belgrade.

BACKGROUND

ENVIRONMENT: Mogren beach is made of two smaller beaches with the total length of 350 metres. Beaches are connected with the tunnel and they spread from the cape Mogren to the Vidikovac Hotel. The extraordinary sand makes this beach one of the most beautiful in Montenegro. It is located 150m from the Old town of Budva and a concrete strand leads towards it. The beach got its name after the Spanish mariner Morgini who disembarked here after a shipwreck.

NARRATIVE: “A huge shark attacked . . . just as he jumped into the water from a cliff. The attack happened before many viewers, but no one came to his aid,” writes Danijel..

INJURY: Fatal

NOTE: “There was even a small monument on the spot [where the accident took place,]” writes Danijel. “I asked some local people about this [accident] when I was on holiday and they confirm.”
